March 2010

The Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem announces the addition of another pharmacy student to its professional staff. In October of 2003 the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem became a pharmacy practice site for UW-Madison School of Pharmacy PharmD-student Clerkship Programs. Also in 2003, George F. Christiansen, RPh became a Clinical Instructor of the University of Wisconsin School of Pharmacy. One of his responsibilities and goals as a Clinic Instructor will be to provide each PharmD-student with the opportunity to communicate face-to-face with the patients regarding the patient's medication needs and disease state concerns.

George, as a Clinical Instructor, has been given the privilege of working with one PharmD-student per session. Each particular PharmD-student will spend at least seven weeks practicing with Mr. Christiansen and his entire staff at the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem. Also, each PharmD-student has a 40-hour per week requirement established by the UW-Madison School of Pharmacy. Consequently, the PharmD-students will be at the pharmacy practice Monday through Friday.

George expects that you, as patients of the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem, may have questions regarding this exciting student related program. George, Pharmacist Stephanie Belling, and Pharmacist Peter Belling, as well as the other team members of the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Please greet and welcome the PharmD-student as you visit the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem. Ms. Melissa Koxlien, is beginning her Clerkship in March 2010. She plans to continue her professional career as a pharmacist in the United States Air Force after graduating in May. Ms. Koxlien, like each student at the pharmacy practice site, is expected to learn, use and expand upon her Pharmacy School education. Melissa will also be willing to serve you with the level of pharmaceutical care that you have learned to expect and deserve from the entire staff from the Clinic Pharmacy of West Salem.
